

JOSHUA AARON JONES

TEACHING PREFERENCES

The course titles proposed here are among courses that I am aware of law schools offering, as well as some brainstorming to share another view of my research and scholarly interests. Though my practice experience lies in family law, estate planning/probate, and education law, I am open to teaching any course, as needed.

LEGAL RESEARCH AND WRITING

First Year

Advanced Courses:

Technology and Legal Writing

Storytelling and Legal Writing

Collaborative Legal Writing

LGBTQIA ISSUES

Current Diversity Issues in the Law

Sexuality and the Law

Sex Discrimination

Diversity and Family Law

Legal Writing for Diversity

FAMILY LAW

Basic Family Law

Collaborative Family Law

Diversity and Family Law

Current Trends in Family Law

EDUCATION LAW

Basic Education Law

Education Employment Law

Special Education Law

Title IX

Administrative Process in Education

Education and Civil Rights

Charter School Law

TRUSTS & ESTATES

Basic Wills, Trusts, and Estates

Estate Planning for Diverse Families

Collaborative Estate Planning

Collaborative Process for Probate

Genealogy Methods for Estate
Planning and Probate

FIRST YEAR CORE COURSES

As needed